About this document

This document summarises the attendance responsibilities for parents, schools, academy trusts and governing bodies, and local authorities which are outlined in the Working together to improve school attendance guidance.

This is guidance from the Department for Education (DfE). This guidance is statutory¹, and schools, trusts, governing bodies, and local authorities must have regard to it as part of their efforts to maintain high levels of school attendance.

The guidance should be read alongside the statutory guidance documents on children missing education, supporting pupils at school with medical conditions, suspensions and exclusions, alternative provision, and Keeping Children Safe in Education.

Working together

Attendance is everyone's business. The barriers to accessing education are wide-ranging and can be complex, both within and beyond the school gates. They are often specific to individual pupils and families. Good attendance begins with school being somewhere pupils want to be and therefore the foundation of securing good attendance is that school is a calm, orderly, safe, and supportive environment where all pupils are keen and ready to learn. For more complex cases, the ethos of the Working together to improve school attendance guidance is that pupils and families should receive holistic, whole-family support to help them overcome the barriers to attendance they are facing. For these more complex cases, a traditional linear or pathway process is unlikely to work. Instead, the guidance expects the best placed service to lead a 'support first' approach with schools working together with local authorities and wider partners, including the voluntary and community sector where needed. This document summarises the expectations of parents, schools, trusts and local authorities and how they should work together.

In all cases the school – as the best placed service – should work to understand the reasons for absence.

In most cases, school will continue as lead practitioner. Where barriers to attendance go beyond the school gates and cover multiple needs, schools should work with the local authority and other agencies to provide wider-holistic support. If the case meets the local thresholds for early help or family support, this may involve completing an early help assessment. In some of these cases a local authority team will be best placed to act as lead practitioner. If attendance is a single need or the case does not meet the local threshold, schools should still follow early help principles in their approach.

Where a pupil or their family already have another lead practitioner working with them, school should work alongside their practitioner, to help make attendance a key element of their existing plan. This includes pupils with a social worker, early help practitioner, youth offender team worker or with an education, health and care plan.

Pupils at risk of becoming persistently absent

Parents are expected to:	Schools are expected to:	Academy trustees and governing bodies are expected to:	Local authorities are expected to:
Work with the school and local authority to help them understand their child's barriers to attendance. Proactively engage with the support offered to prevent the need for more formal support.	Proactively use data to identify pupils at risk of persistent absence. Work with each identified pupil and their parents to understand and address the reasons for absence, including any in-school barriers to attendance. Where out of school barriers are identified, signpost and support access to any required services in the first instance and act as lead practitioner if attendance is the only issue and/or the local threshold for formal early help is not met. If the issue persists, take an active part in the multi-agency effort with the local authority and other partners. If a case meets the local threshold for formal early help/family support, this includes conducting the early help assessment and acting as the lead practitioner where all partners agree that the school is the best placed lead service. Where the lead practitioner is outside of the school, continue to work with the local authority and partners.	Regularly review attendance data and help school leaders focus support on the pupils who need it.	Hold a regular conversation with every school to identify, discuss and signpost or provide access to services for pupils who are persistently or severely absent or at risk of becoming so. Where there are out of school barriers, provide each identified pupil and their family with access to services they need in the first instance. If the issue persists, and there are multiple needs consider whether the threshold for early help is met and facilitate access where it is. Regardless, take an active part in the multi-agency effort with the school and other partners. Provide the lead practitioner in cases where threshold is met and all partners agree that a local authority service is best placed to lead. Where the lead practitioner is outside of the local authority, continue to work with the school and partners.

Where necessary this includes working with partners. Where there is a lack of engagement, hold more formal conversations with parents and be clear about the potential need for legal intervention in future. Where support is not working, being engaged with or appropriate, work with the local authority on legal intervention. Where there are safeguarding concerns, intensify support through a referral to statutory children's social care. Work with other schools in the local area, such as schools previously attended and the schools of any siblings.	Regularly review attendance data and help school leaders focus support on the pupils who need it.	Continue support as for pupils at risk of becoming persistently absent and: Work jointly with the school to provide formal support options including attendance contracts and education supervision orders. Where there are safeguarding concerns, ensure joint working between the school, children's social care services and other statutory safeguarding partners. Where support is not working, being engaged with or appropriate, enforce attendance through legal intervention (including prosecution as a last resort).
